Erledigt Update von 10.6 auf 10.6.8

Beitrag von „ralf." vom 26. Mai 2016, 18:56

Ich habe hier was gefunden

> Zitat
>
> "Install Failed: The installer could not copy the necessary support files"), and when you go online people talk about mad solutions like removing RAM.
>
> Here's what I did. After the install failed for the fifth time (each effort taking an hour or so) I found that there was an install log. I looked at the install log (available from the menu) and saw that the error was linked to a missing file called German.pkg (or something similar).
>
> My guess was that this was a language pack, and on my next install attempt I chose the "customize" option from the install menu. From here I could deselect the language packs, and run the install. This time the installer did not look for the "missing" files, and hey presto, it worked.
>
> I guess it's not so good if you are German...
>
> Alles anzeigen