If you have or get aware of an old genuine MAC which is no longer in use just use the values of this machine since it is registered with Apple. All you need to do is to run the iMessageDebug Script on this machine and carefully write down all of it's output. Disconnect your hackintosh from the Internet and change it's SMBIOS according to the written down values from the genuine Machine. You'll need to change the serial number, the MLB Value (BaseBoardSerial), the ROM Value and the HardwareUUID value. Once done reboot your hackintosh run iMessageDebug Tool on it and double check if all Values match the ones taken from the genuine device if so connect it to the Internet and logon to iMessage and Facetime it should work now...
