@pole Good evening

A quick question for you in case you may be able to assist..

With a fresh 10.13.3 installation and using your Clover directory in EFI, I am experiencing a strange graphics behaviour:

Whenever something updates on the screen (except mouse cursor) I am getting (somewhat) inverted colours: Yellow becomes blue, Brown becomes light blue, blue becomes orange, but green, white, black, and all the gray in between stay the same. I am getting the same behaviour at both the internal display and on my iMac (in Target display mode via DisplayPort). Machine has 16GB of ram and latest BIOS (F70).

Any direction to look at? 😞

Update: This "feature" affects displays independently, and am getting correct colours every third refresh (discovered that by accident, when correct colours appear every third keystroke). If do not move anything else on that monitor, colours stay the same until the clock advances to next minute.
