

iMessage / FaceTime fix

Beitrag von „bbmatias3“ vom 9. April 2018, 09:58

It Seems in the older versions of OS X, AMD machines had iMessage working by Either copying files from machine to Intel (This should not work anymore) or using a kernel did what binary-patched instead of compiled from open source. This probably means AMD machines will never have iMessage or FaceTime, as iMessage and FaceTime relies on proprietary kernel code that is from the open source release, likely to keep iMessage and FaceTime secure.