Well meant tip: If you only bought the hardware for a hackintosh, send the stuff back and wait until it's ripe or even a better solution: switch to X299 since it will be faster then your solution at this moment.

The whole thing is absolutely not for people who want to get into hackintosh or people who need to get under their arm... I won't provide support for it. At least not as long as it's not for the masses.

Even under Catalina there is no native support at all in this moment. ToMac
