It's not a Realtek codec, that's the issue.. Linux is also having trouble getting it to work. I guess sound is not fixable as of now but it works through the monitor and the various docks. Since I'm using a musical interfaces anyways, I can live with(out) it.

And yes, it is the 4K display. However the 0x3E9B0000 platform-id is giving me trouble so I switched to 0x3E9B0009 which is working well in my other laptop with GT2 graphics. I'll keep watching it. So far almost all is good, sleep does not work perfectly, it goes to sleep but then wakes up with Wake reason: XDCI.

So far I'm quite happy, in two days a clean-ish and very well usable hack - thanks Dell!
